

Title: Cultural adaptation and indigenous knowledge in eastern Siberia

Field leader: Hiroki TAKAKURA

Institution: Center for Northeast Asian Studies , Tohoku University

Address: Sendai , Aobaku , Kawauchi 41 980-8576 Japan

phone: +81-022-795-6009

Programme: Comparative study of Arctic local communities related to ice-thawing flood and its socio-cultural adaptation

Principal Investigator: Hiroki Takakura

Proj. Period: April 2010-March 2014

Institution: Tohoku University, JAXA, Kitami Institute of Technology, Oita University

Co-research Institution & Scientist (out of JPN):

Institute of humanities and the indigenous peoples of the North (SB RAS)

Field activity planned for 2013

Invest. Area: Yakutsk city and the surrounding area, Sakha Republic Russian Federation ,

Latitude and longitude: 67

Field Period: 2013 September

Logistics: Unstructured interview, participant observation

Description:

[purpose] Documentation of narrative of population, collection of ethnographic materials

[outline] Cultural adaptation to the ice-jam flood in Lena River

Participants: Hiroki Takakura

Field activity of previous year

Invest. Area: Yakutsk city and the surrounding area, Sakha Republic Russian Federation ,

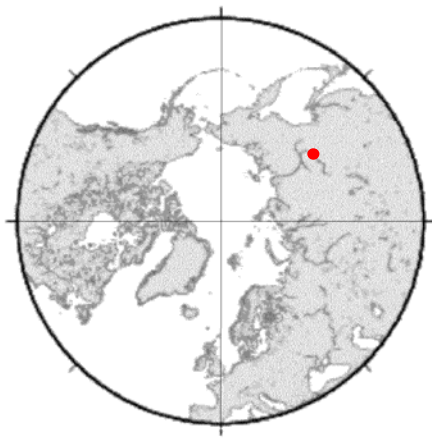

Field Period: 2012 September

Logistics: Unstructured interview, participant observation

Description: Cultural adaptation to the ice-jam flood in Lena River

Number of participants: 1

Area:

Note: